

Register with the Human Library Organization

Spread the word about your Human Library event!

Visit the Human Library Organization's website at <http://humanlibrary.org/> and go to the "Organizers" section to notify them that you are organizing a human library event. You can also email them directly at contact@human-library.org. Either way the Human Library Organization will then send you an Event Application form to fill out.

After you complete and return the form, you will be sent you an email / letter outlining the terms of use for the artwork, methodology and concept available on their website. This is, according to their website "to ensure quality in events, synergy in the brand and to avoid political or commercial abuse of the concept."

Your Human Library event will then be posted on their website in the "Activities" section.
